
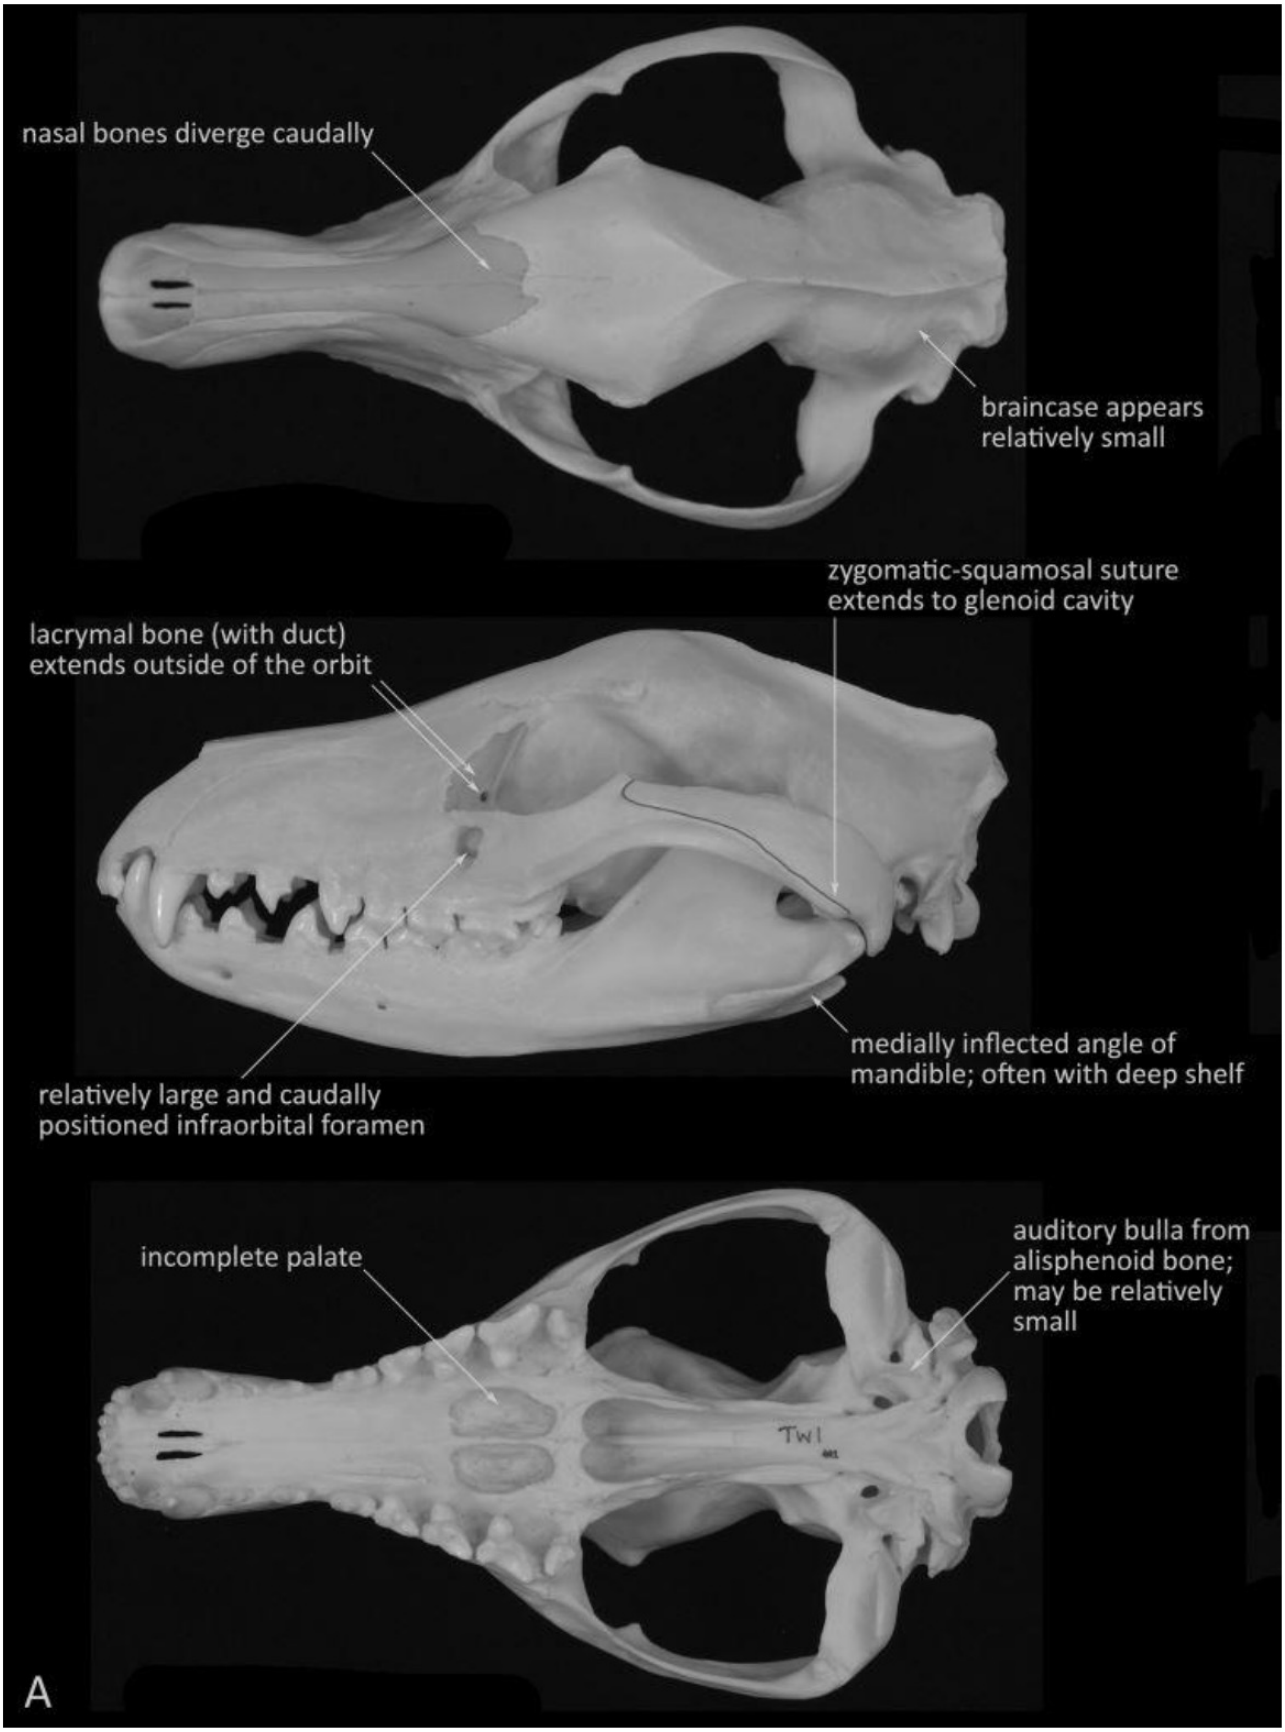
Figure 3. Skulls of Thylacinus cynocephalus; (A) and Canis lupus familiaris; (B) indicating areas of taxonomic significance between marsupial and eutherian clades; dorsal, lateral and ventral views, not to scale (Photos J. Hong, Murdoch University).

foramen (hole) on the dorsal aspect of each vertebra. Additional processes and joints may also be present.



Chapter 3 Musculoskeletal anatomy and adaptations

Authors R Warburton, NM and Dawson

Publication date 2015

Book Marsupials and Monotremes: Nature's Enigmatic Mammals (ed. Klieve, A. et al)

Pages 53-84

Publisher Nova Science Publishers